We want to help to make you more employable through Skill Building Workshops in 2023

Many capable people in our community are under-employed. Many have degrees, have graduated from, or are currently engaged with training programs. But the job postings that they see ask for more work experience or expertise than they have, as well as “project management” experience or “demonstrated leadership”. Together with our partners, we are offering access to online training and to four Skill-Building Workshops in 2023 that will give you skills & practice with programs in common use in business environments. This project is intended to fill in the gaps in your knowledge to increase your confidence and your skills areas that employers are looking for.

What Are The Advantages Of Upskilling?
